

Arranged roughly in chronological order.

- 1. Columbus Monument, by G. Russo. 1892.
Columbus Circle, intersection of Eighth Avenue, Central Park South and 59th Street. The entrances to the island on which the Monument sits are at the southwest and northwest sides of the Circle, by the new Time Warner Center. His voyages (1492-1502) began the European colonization of the Americas.
- 2. Christopher Columbus, by J. Sunol. 1894.
Central Park, north of the 65th St. Traverse. If the city streets grid continued in the Park, it would be at about Sixth Ave. and 66th St.
- 3. Giovanni da Verrazzano, by Ettore Ximenes. 1909.
Battery Park, near the waterfront, just east of Castle Clinton. First European to sail into New York Harbor, April 17, 1524.
- 4. The Pilgrim, by John Quincy Adams Ward. 1885.
Central Park, north of the 72nd-Street traverse. Walk into the Park at East 72nd Street, stay on the north side of the sidewalk, and you will see the statue up the hill to the right just as the 72nd-Street traverse splits into east- and west-bound lanes. Honors the arrival of the Pilgrims in the Mayflower at Plymouth Rock, 1620.
- 5. New York in Infancy: New York in Revolutionary Times, by Philip Martiny. 1907.
Entrance to Surrogate's Court, 31 Chambers St. (at Centre). On the left, New York wears a crown representing royal rule, and carries books and a paper; to the left and right are an Indian and a Dutch settler. On the right, New York wears a helmet, carries a torch in her left hand (symbolizing enlightenment) and rests her right on a globe. To the left a British soldier stands before the a shield bearing the motto of Great Britain. To the right, a woman in 18th-c. garb holding flowers stands before a shield with the Stars and Stripes.
- 6. Peter Stuyvesant, by Gertrude Vanderbilt Whitney. Granite pedestal by Noel and Miller. 1936.
Stuyvesant Square, between 16th and 17th Sts., west of Second Ave. The last director-general of New Amsterdam; reluctantly handed it over to the English in 1664.
- 7. Abraham De Peyster, by George Edwin Bissell. 1896.
South side of Hanover Square, William St. between Pearl and Stone Sts. Merchant and government official in the late 17th c., soon after Manhattan was taken over by the English.
- 8. Benjamin Franklin, by Ernst Plassmann. ca. 1872.
Nassau St. and Park Row at Nassau St., on the east side of the street (in front of Pace University, just south of the Brooklyn Bridge entrance ramp). Scientist, inventor, journalist, publisher, and the most prominent American diplomat during the Revolutionary War.
- 9. Thomas Jefferson, by William Ordway Partridge. 1914.
Columbia University, in front of the Graduate School of Journalism. Enter on Broadway at 116th St., right at the end of the first building, then right again. Writer of the Declaration of Independence; third president of the United States.
- 10. Nathan Hale, by Frederick MacMonnies. Granite pedestal by Stanford White. 1890.
Facing City Hall, at the north end of City Hall Park. To see his face, you need permission to enter the City Hall grounds. Twenty-one-year-old schoolteacher, captured and hanged as a spy by the British in 1776.
- 11. Marquis de Lafayette, by Frederic-Auguste Bartholdi. 1873.
Union Square at East 16th Street. French aristocrat dedicated to fighting for liberty; served in the American army 1777-1781.
- 12. Lafayette and Washington, by Frederic-Auguste Bartholdi. 1890.
114th St. and Manhattan Avenue, at Morningside Avenue.
- 13. George Washington, by Henry Kirke Brown. 1853-1855.
South side of Union Square, facing 14th St. between University Place and Broadway. Washington as Commander-in-Chief meeting New Yorkers on Evacuation Day, November 25, 1783, when the British troops finally left the city.
- 14. George Washington, by John Quincy Adams Ward. Granite pedestal by Richard Morris Hunt. 1883.
Wall and Nassau Sts., Federal Hall National Memorial. First president of the U.S., shown on his inauguration in 1789. Bronze relief to the left of the steps shows Washington praying at Valley Forge.
- 15. Washington Arch, by Herman MacNeil and Alexander Stirling Calder. Arch by Stanford White. 1914-16, 1917-19 (arch 1889-1892).
Washington Square Park, Fifth Ave. at Washington Square North. On the left, Washington as Commander-in-Chief, flanked by Fame and Valor. On the right, Washington as President, flanked by Wisdom and Justice.
- 16. Alexander Hamilton, by Carl Conrads. 1880.
Central Park, 83rd St. and East Drive. First secretary of the Treasury (1789-1795), promoter of business and commerce, founder of the Bank of New York (1784) and the New York Post.
- 17. Alexander Hamilton, by Adolph A. Weinman. ca. 1940.
Museum of the City of New York, Fifth Ave. at 103rd St.
- 18. Alexander Hamilton, by William Ordway Partridge. 1908.
Columbia University, in front of Hamilton Hall. Enter the campus on Broadway at 116th St., walk east, turn right down stairs, head east again to front of Hamilton Hall.
- 19. Alexander Hamilton, by William Ordway Partridge. 1892.
Hamilton Grange, 287 Convent Ave., between West 141st and 142nd Sts.
- Discussed in a full-length essay in Forgotten Delights: The Producers, by Dianne Durante.
- Discussed on www.ForgottenDelights.com in a Salute.

Additional copies of this flyer can be printed out from www.ForgottenDelights.com/pre1800.pdf

By neighborhood, from south to north:

Giovanni da Verrazzano, 3

Abraham de Peyster, 7

George Washington, 14

Nathan Hale, 10

Benjamin Franklin, 8

New York in Infancy & in Revolutionary
Times, 5

Washington Arch, 15

George Washington, 13

Marquis de Lafayette, 11

Peter Stuyvesant, 6

Columbus Monument, 1

Christopher Columbus, 2

The Pilgrim, 4

Alexander Hamilton, 16

Alexander Hamilton, 17

Thomas Jefferson, 9

Alexander Hamilton, 18

Lafayette & Washington, 12

Alexander Hamilton, 19

On the cover of this flyer:
Alexander Hamilton in Central Park (#16)

Figures from American History

Active Before 1800

For more information about outdoor sculptures in Manhattan, visit

www.ForgettingDelights.com

and read

Forgotten Delights: The Producers,
by Dianne Durante,

first in a series of books on Manhattan's outdoor representational sculpture.

Forthcoming volumes
in the Forgetting Delights series:

The Defenders

Politicians & Media Moguls

Artists

Allegorical and Mythological Figures

Children; Animals

www.ForgettingDelights.com

Visit some of Manhattan's Forgetting Delights